

NASSIB I. GHOBRI

Nassib Ghobril is the Chief Economist and Head of the Economic Research & Analysis Department at Byblos Bank since March 2006, one Lebanon's largest banking and financial services groups. Previously, he was Head of Research at Groupe Saradar, Head of Research at investment banking firm Lebanon Invest, and Deputy Head of Research at the Audi-Saradar Group.

Mr. Ghobril has built from the ground up economic research departments at Byblos Bank and at Groupe Saradar. He has published more than 800 weekly analytical reports on the Lebanese economy and more than 790 weekly economic and financial reports on the Middle East, Africa and Emerging Markets since 2006. He also publishes an annual review of the performance of Lebanese economy since 2016. In addition, he has developed and launched the Byblos Bank Consumer Confidence Index, the Byblos Bank Real Estate Demand Index, the Byblos Bank Real Estate Price Perception Survey, and the Byblos Bank Car Demand Index.

He is a frequent guest speaker at local, regional and international conferences as well as at universities, business, and civic organizations. Additionally, he is a regular guest at local, regional and international media outlets.

He is a Member of the World Economic Association, a member of the Cercle des Economistes Arabes, a Member of the Research & Studies Committee at the Association of Banks in Lebanon, a member of the Board of Advisors of the Lebanese American University's School of Business, a member of the Advisory Board of the Faculty of Business and Management at the University of Balamand, a Board Member of the Levant Institute for Strategic Affairs, and a member of the Lebanese Association for Taxpayers' Rights (ALDIC). In addition, he is a board member of several civic and charitable organizations.

He holds a Bachelor degree in Political Studies and Economics from the American University of Beirut, an MA in International Affairs from the American University in Washington, DC, a Master in International Management from the Thunderbird Graduate School of International Management in Glendale, Arizona, and has completed the requirements of a PhD at the American University in Washington, DC.